

HSE First Aid at Work Re-qualification Course Description

Aims & Objectives

The aims and objectives of the HSE (Health & Safety Executive) First Aid at Work Requalification course is to enable people designated as the First Aider at work to continue to carry out appropriate first aid in an emergency situation. Following the course the attendees will be able to manage a casualty who is injured at work, or suffers from a serious illness, until the emergency services arrive. Each on site course is tailored around your workplace where possible.

A copy of a valid in date First Aid at Work Certificate for each attendee is required prior to the training (in some cases we can re-qualify an individual up to one month after their certificate has expired).

General Information

Maximum of 12 attendees per Instructor

Course Duration

12 Hours (2 Days)

This can be broken down into bite size chunks of training to suit your requirements. Training must be completed over a maximum of six weeks.

Delivery Technique

This course is delivered via a range of techniques including;

- Instructor Led Presentation
- Group Practice
- Group Discussion
- PowerPoint
- Video Presentation

The amount of different methods of presentation is flexible to suit the needs of the group.

Course Assessment

All attendees are required to undertake an assessment on the final day of the course; both practical and theoretical aspects will be assessed. The assessments are carried out by two external assessors who have not been involved in the teaching of the course. Our assessors are trained to carry out the assessments in a low stress environment and to install confidence in all attendees.

Course Certification

All successful attendees will be awarded a certificate approved by the Health & Safety Executive (HSE), this certificate is valid for three years.

What do I need to host this course on site?

- A room that will comfortably seat your amount of delegates and allow for floor practice for the duration of the course
- Two additional assessment areas on the final afternoon of the course
